

So here we are in the dead of winter, getting ready for a huge community celebration and I have been stuck on what to write to you. I have been struggling with this notion of covenant. I now know at this point in my career I should know what a covenant is, right?! But it is a word used so often in our congregational identity that I think it sometimes gets watered down or glossed over in terms of its importance.

Biblically speaking, we are obviously aware of the covenants God and the Hebrew people had: "I will be your God and you will be my people". Over time this took on many facets from the perspective of the Hebrew scripture writers in terms of explaining how and why God responded to them in certain ways at certain times in their history. But I do not think that covenant is just a simple agreement between two parties. I think that when we really delve into The Hebrew scriptures then we see there is so much more to this covenant thingy. I like what the UCC has to offer: "Whenever a solemn agreement between people is one that is also made with God, the depths of relationships are qualitatively different. It's very different to be God's people as sisters and brothers in Christ than to be members of a club"

Covenants today, in our particular denomination, continue to accept this idea of a promise with the Divine and creation. But they also suggest that this promise pertains to the covenantal relationship with each other and with the Divine. Thus, we come to the most crucial word and aspect of the covenant: Relationship. (Continued on page 2.)

Yet another word that gets used frequently, relationship implies a lot of stuff! It suggests, even demand that we hold each other with kindness and respect. It requires that we are honest with each other, holding one another accountable for living into the gospel in each aspect of our congregational life. Relationship says that I will look to you for support and challenge to grow and I will offer you the same. It means that I will do everything in my power to put aside my ego in order to hear your longings and needs while at the same time being aware of my boundaries and own needs. And it suggests I will do my best to hold in tension and in love, all the ways we do not see eye to eye.

This is relationship. And it is also the undergirding of this thing we call covenant. And we, dear friends, will be once again, professing these covenantal promises to one another in just a short time.

It is with great humility that I accept your trust and your confidence and in addition to offering all the promises above, I also offer my intention to be for you a prophetic voice in our global wilderness. I am so excited about what we can accomplish together through the grace of our Beloved.

Peace to you all.

Lesson 11: Who Is In Charge? – Self-control

The lessons are designed with flexibility. They are drawn from qualities that are important to develop in our own lives as well as to nurture in our children. Therefore, there is no date assigned to any particular lesson. It may take 1 – 3 sessions for any lesson.

Sunday Morning Adult Faith Formation

This month Percolate will begin its study of The Meaning of Jesus- Two Visions by Marcus J. Borg and N. T. Wright. As the title suggests, this is a book of contrasts. Marcus Borg was raised in a “traditional conventional Midwest Lutheran church”, while N.T. Wright grew up in a “traditional and conventional Anglican church in the north of England.” Rather than being an acrimonious text, this is an open and respectful discussion between friends. Both share a Christian faith and practice and are both respected historians. Join us on Sunday mornings at 8:30 – to participate in the discussions - the coffee is always on.

Mid Week Faith Formation

Wednesdays at 5 p.m.

The study will be on The Book of Mark.

Read through the whole book of Mark; it's only 16 chapters and then come prepared to discuss a couple of chapters a session. It doesn't matter what version of the Bible you use. That will add some diversity to the discussion.

Jan 27—We'll discuss Chapter 11.

The 2016 Annual Meeting in Salt Lake City While the theme is still forthcoming, we are excited to formally invite clergy, lay-leaders, delegates, RMC UCC members, and their families to Annual Meeting 2016! The meeting will take place June 9-12 at the University of Utah in beautiful Salt Lake City, Utah. The meeting will be hosted by our be-loved Intermountain Association. We developed the new Vision and Framework in 2014; in 2015, we planted Mission Seed groups to begin our important work for the future. In 2016, we are eager to radically connect with one another and continue our work in the name of the Spirit. Most importantly, we want to emphasize that Annual Meeting isn't just for delegates; it's for anyone and everyone interested in the good work and well-being of the Rocky Mountain Conference. We can't wait to see what the future holds, but we can't be at our best without the input, wisdom, and presence of our people. Our people decide the mission of the Conference, not the other way around!
